MASTER OF REAL ESTATE & INFRASTRUCTURE (MREI)

Build Your Career
on a Solid Foundation

GREAT BUILDINGS NEED A SOLID FOUNDATION AND SO DO GREAT CAREERS.

The 12-month full-time Master of Real Estate and Infrastructure (MREI) is designed to develop city builders – to equip future leaders in real estate and infrastructure development, investment, finance and operations. The MREI builds upon the reputation and expertise of Schulich's existing MBA specialization in real estate and infrastructure, founded in 1991.

JAMES MCKELLAR
Director, Brookfield Centre in Real Estate & Infrastructure

Led by James McKellar and a dedicated faculty, in consultation with an advisory board of industry leaders, Schulich's MREI program is the first in North America to address the nexus between real estate and infrastructure, offering courses in both.

What is the program like?

- 12-month program combines theory with practice, focusing on industry leadership and career development.
- Connects students to a dynamic network of alumni and industry players.
- Provides a comprehensive base of skills and knowledge and a keen awareness of the socio-economic aspects of real estate and infrastructure development.
- The final term offers work/study, internship, and research opportunities and a creative workshop that integrates learning from every aspect of the student experience both inside and outside the classroom.

A foundation built upon real work experiences

- The Schulich MREI provides an intensive program of co-curricular activities including international case competitions, networking events, industry conferences, specialized training, field trips and study tours to places such as New York City.
- MREI students – together with MBA students specializing in real estate and infrastructure – organize much of the co-curricular program, and costs are subsidized by our REI Student Experience Fund.

Career opportunities

- The MREI addresses a significant resource for qualified professions in what is recognized as the single largest industry in the region as measured by percent of GDP.
- Graduates work in real estate and infrastructure development, investment and portfolio management, project finance and consulting.
- Graduates are employed by developers, real estate investment trusts, pension funds and advisory firms, financial institutions, brokerage and consulting firms. Some are entrepreneurs, launching their own firms.
- Industry-specific career counselling and placement services are provided by Schulich's Career Development Centre.
