Kiersten Campbell, MMAI '24
Gen AI and MLOps Specialist, Startup Club

Kiersten Campbell is a Gen AI and MLOps Specialist at Startup Club, with expertise in AI project development, data analytics and Responsible AI. A graduate of Schulich's Master of Management in Artificial Intelligence program, Kiersten completed an 8-month AI consulting project with Scotiabank during her time at Schulich. She has just under two years of experience working on Generative AI projects in the Startup Club incubator, a small company, focusing on educational AI and entrepreneurship projects. An emerging leader in AI, Kiersten has a background in AI initiatives in both small and large companies. She has unique insights into how companies are adopting AI and the skills they are seeking. In just a few weeks, she embarks on the next chapter of her career as a Data & AI Associate of the TELUS Graduate Technology Leadership Program (GTLP). As someone who is always open to a coffee chat Kiersten is excited to share insights on how AI is shaping the future of work and how her experience at Schulich guided her journey.

Sarah Khan, BBA '13, MBA '22
Senior Consultant, Customer & Marketing Consulting, Deloitte

Sarah Khan is a Senior Consultant in Deloitte's Customer & Marketing consulting division, where she manages complex client engagements with top-tier Canadian organizations. Sarah has a decade of experience in leveraging data analytics to implement customer-centric strategies that drive profitability across multiple industries (i.e., finance, government, energy, and healthcare).
