A Message from the Executive Director, Centre for Career Design

The Schulich i/BBA Class of 2024 represents an exceptional group of students, and I am proud to share their career and post-i/BBA accomplishments.

Among those actively seeking employment, an impressive 91% of graduates secured at least one job offer within nine months of graduation. Others pursued equally rewarding paths, such as entrepreneurship, international travel, and the many who chose to continue their education at Schulich through a one-year specialized masters degree.

The Class of 2024 earned high praise from our extensive network of corporate partners for their technical expertise, professional acumen, and commitment to curiosity and lifelong learning. We are deeply grateful to our corporate partners and vibrant alumni network, whose unwavering support has been instrumental in guiding our students as they navigate their job searches and explore the vast opportunities in today's dynamic job market.

At the Schulich Centre for Career Design, our team remains steadfast in its commitment to empowering students and fostering meaningful connections between talent and industry. Grounded in our core values – integrity, service, expertise, empathy, and enthusiasm – we strive to help students design fulfilling careers while supporting our corporate partners in achieving their talent goals.

It is with great pride that I present this report, celebrating the outstanding achievements of the Schulich i/BBA Class of 2024 and the collective efforts of the Schulich community in shaping their success.

Alumni Reflections

Liam Turchin
(iBBA '24)

Leadership Track Program
Candidate, Maple Leaf Foods

How did the Schulich undergraduate program align with your career goals and personal aspirations?

Schulich stood out to me for its top-tier reputation among employers in the GTA – the business capital of Canada – as well as its exceptional faculty. Personally, I was drawn to the wide range of internationally focused courses and the exciting opportunity to study abroad on exchange.

How did the CCD or broader Schulich network help you navigate a particular challenge or opportunity during the program or your job search?

Two of the most valuable resources I used were the networking events organized by the CCD and the Schulich-specific job portal on Handshake. These exclusive tools allowed me to connect one-on-one with potential employers and build relationships with recruiters before even submitting an application. In fact, every job offer I received after graduating stemmed from an interaction, posting, or event facilitated by the CCD!

Which professional competency developed during the program do you feel is most integral to your work today, and why?

Communication has been integral to my success in the business world. In both my entrepreneurial and corporate endeavors, being a good listener, a clear communicator, and maintaining a person-centric mindset have allowed me to build strong relationships, work effectively in teams, and resolve conflicts. At Schulich, I not only learned to collaborate with a diverse group of peers, but I was also introduced to the concept of emotional intelligence (EQ) and taught how to enhance my listening skills.

How do you see the value of your Schulich undergraduate degree evolving over time?

The Schulich name is highly sought after by employers, both in the GTA and internationally. During my studies, I forged relationships with professors and guest speakers who are leaders in their fields, expanding my network with potential employers – a network that continues to offer opportunities even after graduation. I also built strong connections with successful peers, many of whom are now thriving in their careers and eager to support fellow Schulich alumni. Post-graduation, Schulich's robust alumni network is something I'm excited to engage with further. The networking opportunities are endless for those who are committed to growing and learning.

What advice would you give to high school students who are considering Schulich for their undergraduate studies?

If you're seeking a program that is intellectually stimulating, occasionally challenging, yet ultimately rewarding, you've found the right place. At Schulich, you'll learn from top-tier professors and be surrounded by classmates who will consistently push you to surpass your perceived limitations, helping you become a stronger, smarter, and more well-connected version of yourself.

Rahma Tariq (BBA '24)

Wealth Management Associate,
Scotia Wealth Management

How did the Schulich undergraduate program align with your career goals and personal aspirations?

The Schulich BBA program was instrumental in aligning with my career goals, particularly in finance and marketing. It provided me with the essential skills needed to thrive in the industry and facilitated valuable connections with industry professionals. This has been crucial in my career development.

How did the CCD or broader Schulich network help you navigate a particular challenge or opportunity during the program or your job search?

The Schulich program significantly boosted my confidence, enabling me to effectively engage with industry professionals both on LinkedIn and in personal networking events. This confidence was key during my job search, helping me to navigate opportunities and build a strong professional network.

Which professional competency developed during the program do you feel is most integral to your work today, and why?

Communication stands out as the most integral competency developed during my time at Schulich. In the wealth management industry, clear and effective communication is paramount – not only with clients to understand and meet their financial goals but also within teams to ensure seamless operations and service delivery.

How do you see the value of your Schulich undergraduate degree evolving over time?

As the Schulich alumni network continues to grow and more graduates enter the workforce, the value of our degree only enhances. This expanding network serves as a powerful tool for building professional connections and leveraging collective successes.

What advice would you give to high school students who are considering Schulich for their undergraduate studies?

My advice to prospective students is to fully embrace and make the most of their time at university. I know it may sound cliché, but the effort you invest directly correlates with the rewards you reap. Schulich offers numerous opportunities; taking advantage of them can define your academic and professional journey.

Katherine Liu
(iBBA '24)

Associate Consultant, Sustainability and Enterprise Strategy, IBM

How did the Schulich undergraduate program align with your career goals and personal aspirations?

The Schulich undergraduate program gave me the flexibility to explore diverse fields and align my passions with my career goals. Through its interdisciplinary approach, I found fulfillment at the intersection of technology, accounting, and sustainability, shaping my path toward a purpose-driven career.

How did the CCD or broader Schulich network help you navigate a particular challenge or opportunity during the program or your job search?

Schulich's industry clubs and broader community provided me with invaluable support in exploring diverse career paths, preparing for interviews, and excelling in my role today. Through events, mentorship, and networking opportunities, I refined my skills and gained the confidence to navigate the job market successfully.

Which professional competency developed during the program do you feel is most integral to your work today, and why?

The Schulich undergraduate program provided a balance of technical proficiency and critical thinking, equipping me with the problem-solving skills essential to my work. Leadership opportunities and exposure to diverse perspectives further strengthened my ability to collaborate effectively across cross-functional teams.

How do you see the value of your Schulich undergraduate degree evolving over time?

The value of my Schulich degree will continue to grow as my career progresses, bolstered by an ever-expanding alumni network and ongoing opportunities for mentorship – both as a recipient and a mentor. While the business acumen and skills I gained serve as a strong foundation, it's the relationships within the Schulich community that will always help me adapt to wherever life takes me next.

What advice would you give to high school students who are considering Schulich for their undergraduate studies?

Schulich offers more than just an education – it's a place where you'll grow academically, professionally, and personally. Embrace the challenges, lean on the supportive community, and say yes to new experiences. Whether through case competitions, global exchanges, or leadership roles, Schulich offers the opportunities to unlock your potential.
